MOST VALUABLE player of the year was George Whiteside, for the second year in a row. Presenting the trophy to George is Jimmy Bledsoe. Award was made at the All-Sports Banquet.

FOOTBALL SWEETHEART Joyce Burnett, sophomore beauty, was chosen by the Yoemen as sweetheart for the 1973-74 school year. Presentation of a bouquet of red roses was made by Yoe captains at the banquet.

With F.M.L.

No one shows more poorly than the man who puts himself in a bad light.

Cameron has exceptional hospital facilities for a town this size. So if that is an opportunity, visit St. Edward Hospital or Newton Memorial and see what small-city hospital facilities can be.

What we need in Cameron is more personnel to man these institutions. And one of the jobs of a doctor here should be coroner's duty.

115-115-115

Congratulations again to George Whiteside, second time a winner of the Yoe High Booster Club award in as many years.

George is all-everything, from high school All-American on down. Twice honors at district, region, area, nation.

A lot, if not all of Central Texas Redneckdom is embarrassed to recall George wouldn't have had a chance at real Texas and national athletic honors just a few years ago if Cameron had continued a dual system of schools.

I don't know what his college plans are, or that he is physically big or fast enough to go to major college ball. But for a AAA performer in football and baseball, he is class.

And I don't use that term lightly, because it encompasses a lot of characteristics, not only distinction.

Being a Yankee in Central Texas may have sharpened my appreciation of performance under pressure, that element of courage Hemingway called "grace under pressure."

George must know that mastery of one's self is the only way to deal with critics whose right once seemed inherent to put such young men down. In George's case, he just ran by or hurdled them.

Chances are he will be a great man someday in what ever he does. We need a few of those. We always need more than we get.

Besides, George, I wish my name were easier to read like yours:

Have you ever noticed how close science came to naming cancer of the blood after me? Is it Leukemia or Lueckemia?

Whiteside Named Most Valuable Player

For the second year in a row, George Whiteside was named Most Valuable Football Player of the Year at the Yoe High School all-sports banquet held Monday night at Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Whiteside, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whiteside of Cameron, has been honored as a member of the Austin All-Centex team, the Waco Times-Herald All Centex team, the Temple Daily Telegram All-Centex team, the Prep All-America team, and the Who's Who All-American team.

Also recognized at the banquet was Leroy Doskocil as Booster of the Year.

Receiving a bouquet of roses and a traditional kiss from one of the football captains was Football Sweetheart Joyce Burnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burnett of Cameron, and a sophomore at Yoe High.

Guest speaker for the evening was Donald Guy, of Austin, assistant secretary for the Texas High School Coaches Association, past president of the Association, and a coach for 19 years.

PTA Group Votes To Disband Organization

The Cameron PTA had its final meeting Thursday night, May 2, not for the year, but permanently.

A vote was called by the president, Mrs. Sharon Hobbs, and a majority voted to suspend the organization, due to a lack of interest by parents and teachers.

"The only time most parents attend is when their child is on the program," Mrs. Hobbs said. "And then if the program happens to be before the business meeting, many of the parents leave, as they did in the past meeting."

The possibility of organizing a PTO (Parent - Teachers Organization) in the future was mentioned, but Mrs. Hobbs said there would have to be help from parents.

"It's to your schools' benefit to have some kind of organization," she stated. "All money earned or received goes to the schools for water fountains, shower curtains, rugs, etc."

Yoe vs Taylor

The Yoemen will play South Zone champ Taylor at a date and site to be determined.

St. Edward Hospital Marks Special Week

Residents of Cameron will have an opportunity to become better informed about the services, activities and future goals of St. Edward Hospital during National Hospital Week, May 12-18.

On announcing St. Edward Hospital's National Hospital Week activities, Sister Mary Jeanette, administrator, said, "In this era of vast social and economic change, people are concerned about how hospitals are meeting growing health care needs, both inside and outside their walls. They have a rightful interest in how effectively and efficiently hospitals are fulfilling their responsibilities, and about the rising costs of health care services.

St. Edward Hospital is joining 7,000 hospitals throughout the country in observation of the annual event with the national slogan, "Get to know us before you need us."

"The objectives of our National Hospital Week 1974 activities are to encourage the people of this community, as well as those closely involved with the institution, to "get to know us." As they "get to know us," we hope the public will then better understand that we need their involvement and support in order to meet our obligations to the community."

Sister Mary Jeanette said that during National Hospital Week, St. Edward Hospital will: conduct an Open House for the Home and Family Living classes at Yoe High School. The tour will include areas such as the laboratory, X-Ray, Emergency Room, Operating Room, Nursery, Business Office, Dietary and other interesting areas.

National Hospital Week, sponsored by the American Hospital Association, was begun in 1920 when leaders in the health field established a National Hospital Day to make the 100th anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, the woman credited with establishing the modern profession of nursing. In 1953, National Hospital Day was extended to the week-long event now observed.

UR Agency 'Recycled'

Cameron's Urban Renewal Agency will close out under its present name and will continue operations under a new name, the Community Development Agency. Staff will remain the same.

Mayor Gene Blake explained the new arrangements to city councilmen at a regular meeting Tuesday night, which also saw a crowded city hall as several delegations appeared before the council.

Blake told councilmen that the urban renewal program has been extended to January 1, 1975. However, since federal urban renewal programs are now out, the city needs an agency to handle any future federal programs, including the Better Communities Development.

The agency will continue to supervise the present urban renewal program until its completion. Blake told councilmen that federal programs for the city must be operated through an agency, and with the new agency, the city will be ready.

In other business the council:

-- Heard a delegation of about 17 persons requesting paving for Harding Street. The city secretary was authorized to figure the cost for each property owner, and delegation was told 100 percent cooperation by all owners would avoid an assessment program, which is expensive to the city.

-- Agreed to purchase benches, tables, and grills for City Park at a cost of $514 after request by a delegation from the parks committee of the city planning commission and the Arts and Service League. Other improvements will also be made to the park.

-- Saw photos submitted by Mrs. John Sapp showing garbage cans overturned at the McIntosh apartments. She read from the city garbage ordinance and the city will notify the owner of the violations.

-- Decided to hold for the next meeting decision on marking streets for parking. Highway department estimated $2900 cost, but does not have the paint. E. A. Bigbee showed fiberglass "buttons" which would cost approximately $6,000, but would be of a permanent nature.

-- Accepted a bid of $817 for costs, helmets, face shields, and boots for the fire department, contingent on bid approval by the fire chief.

-- Agreed to rent the airpark office for $25 a month for operation of a cafe.

-- Heard the mayor discuss the problem that the new wage and hour law will work on having a driver for the firetruck, since an employee will have to be paid time and a half for overtime. The law affecting that will go into effect in January, 1975.

-- Received copies of the city audit report, which contains recommendations for more efficient operation. A committee of Bob Clark, Lawrence Zotz, and Ed Magre will study the recommendations and report to the council.

-- Heard a report from Lincoln Mondrik on the dog vaccination program, which he says is working well, with 162 dogs vaccinted in five days.

Beyond High School...

We congratulate members of the Co-ordinating Board of Texas College and University System for allowing Temple Junior College to offer off-campus courses in Cameron and Taylor.

Cameron and Taylor Public Schools co-operate in such an effort, which will mean regular college courses for students and adults and non-credit course for what is known as "continuing education."

Credit for college courses taken in Cameron or Taylor would be transferable to any other junior or senior college.

It is a start on having a junior college within the CI SD system and this part of Cen-Tex.

Idea of a separate junior college was discussed in the early 1960s even as a building program for a public library here gained support. But the proximity of Temple Junior College and universities in Waco, College Station and Austin made such an idea less viable.

What might have been viable here was consideration for a technical school funded like a junior college district. That would have meant additional school taxes when the CISD district was all but broke , and other districts in the area except Aloca-impacted Rockdale were also hurting in the decline of cotton.

Waco found a use for a vacated Air Force Base when federal funding enabled the founding of Connally Technical Institute which became the highly successful Texas State Technical Institute.

This proximity and a viable lack of revenue for such a technical center in Milam County obviated any prospect.

So TJC's branching out is a start that comes with the times. It means less commuting for Milam students and drawing additional college students to TJC courses offered in Cameron schools.

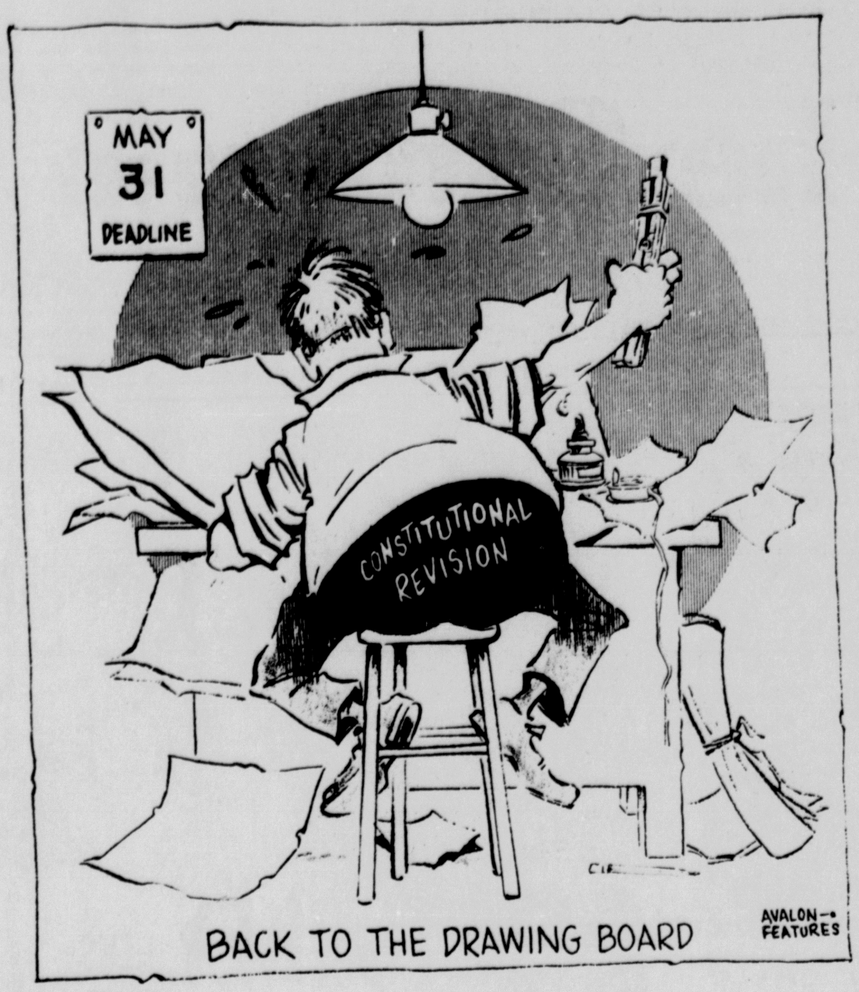
The demand for such training here has been great for a generation between Temple and Brenham, home of Blinn Junior College, which runs a bus service in this area.

It is interesting that Cameron considered a technical school of some kind in the early 1960s when a survey publicly reviewed by Dr. Roy Dugger, president emeritus of TSTI, showed more functional illiterates from Central to North Texas than any other part of the nation.

Such information was the start of technocracy and of real industrialization of Central Texas. And it was the beginning of the modern era of Texas' last frontier.

So the junior college classes will add that dimension which a modern community requires and which further assumes attraction to productive, able people who can earn and learn here.

Thanks to Texas College and University System for seeing this potential. Cameron indeed has gone a long way.



OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to the latest government figures, inflation in this country is rising at a little over 10 per cent a year and an economist has figured out that if you set aside $1,000 and the rate continues, in ten years your $1,000 will be worth O.

He stopped there but if he'd continued with the same formula I guess he'd have found that in 20 years you'd be $1,000 in the hole.

That's the reason I leave inflation, like the Middle East, to other people.

However, I read another article on the matter that has me puzzled even more. According to it, the president of a big city bank claims that the only cure for inflation is a recession. He said this right after the prime interest rate went up past 10 per cent and he may be working on it, but the remedy sounds like setting the broken leg of a dead race horse, or reducing speed on highways by letting the air out of everybody's back tires. It's like solving the crime problem by making nothing against the law, like eliminating divorce by eliminating marriage. It's like getting out of the frying pan into the fire, although personally I've never hankered to be in either place. Be like going from the State Legislature to Congress.

If the only cure for inflation is a recession, and the cure for a recession is inflation, it looks like we're in for a long see-saw ride.

Oh well, I've long contended that the two kids who broke the see-saw record by riding the thing continuously up and down for 29 hours in their backyard probably traveled as far in time and saw as much as the people who have breakfast in New York and jet to Los Angeles for lunch. Whipping inflation is like beating the whites of eggs. The more you whip the fluffier it gets.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

State To Receive More In Revenue Sharing

New federal revenue sharing funds totalling $294,045,044 will be distributed to state, county and city governments in Texas during the next fiscal year.

This is $9 million more than allocations for the current year which amount to $285,228,345 for all units of government in the state.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe reported state government will get nearly $3 million more for the 1974-75 fiscal period beginning July 1 than the 1973-74 allotment.

State government's cut is $98,081,488 compared with $95,283,690 for this year.

An overpayment of $108,711, due to an Office of Revenue Sharing mistake in Washington will be deducted from next year's funds sent to Texas.

The allocation is based on a formula including consideration of population, per capita income and tax effort.

Under next year's formula, hospital district taxes will be considered in the total county tax effort. Hospital taxes previously had been considered a city tax effort.

Six Texas counties will get larger revenue sharing allotments while some cities within the counties will get smaller amounts.

Harris County, which now receives $6.87 million, will get $9.65 million for 1974-75. Houston will receive slightly less — $17,366,689 as compared with $18 million under current formulas.

The Dallas County total will increase from $3.58 million to $5.2 million. Nueces County's share will increase from $1.7 million to $2.3 million, Bexar County's from $2.6 million to $5.2 million, El Paso County's from $1.2 to $1.9 million and Tarrant County from $1.8 million to $3.25 million.

In newspapers and magazines, on television and radio, the energy crisis is still one of the top news stories. The problems, their effects on our everyday lives and the economy concern everyone to some degree.

However, Texas Power & Light feels that you may want to know about what we're doing to protect you from a shortage of electricity.

All but one of our present operating plants were designed and built to utilize natural gas for electric power generation. During most of the past three decades, gas was the most economical and plentiful fuel. This is no longer true. Because of sharply rising cost and uncertain future supplies of gas, TP&L and some other southwestern companies are shifting to lignite—a form of soft coal—as a generating plant fuel. Coal is more economical to secure and more readily available. TP&L has acquired major deposits of lignite in East and Northeast Texas.

The transition from natural gas to lignite will be accomplished over a period of several years. Two lignite-fueled generating units are now supplying electricity to TP&L customers. Seven other units are presently under construction and an eighth unit will be started soon. One or more of these units is scheduled to go into service in each of the years from 1975 to 1980.

For the immediate future, TP&L is working to improve and assure its supply of natural gas for existing generating plants. We're participating in exploration and drilling for gas in East and West Texas and we're developing gas storage reservoirs in East Texas. Gas will be injected into the reservoirs as it is available and used during peak demand periods or any curtailments of normal deliveries by the Company's suppliers.

On a long-range basis, even all the new lignite-fueled plants the Company can build will not be sufficient to meet anticipated future electric needs of TP&L customers. So, in 1972, TP&L, Dallas Power & Light and Texas Electric Service announced plans to build a nuclear-fueled plant. The first unit of the plant is scheduled to begin operation in 1980 and the second in 1982.

Dealing with the energy crisis is difficult and costly. Lignite-fueled and nuclear-fueled plants cost several times more per-kilowatt to build than gas-fueled plants, but TP&L will continue doing what must be done to assure you a dependable supply of electricity in the years ahead.

"WHAT IS TP&L DOING ABOUT THE ENERGY CRISIS?"

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

COWS AND COAL CALLED COMPATIBLE

Senator Clifford Hansen (Wyo.) ". . . Burton B. Brewster a rancher at Birney, Mont., explained better than I could the real concern of the ranchers in this two-State coal area, and I ask unanimous consent that his remarks from the . . . Montana Stockman Farmer be printed in the Record." (Excerpts follow).

I happen to be one of the many ranchers who believe we can live with controlled strip mining of coal and run cattle at the same time. To fortify this belief here are a few facts.

I think the enviroment is as important to me as it is to anyone. My father picked this site in 1882. I have lived here 71 years. He liked it then, I like it now. I gradulated from college with a degree in Geology and wrote my graduation paper on coal because I knew then, in 1928 that we had coal at Birney.

The average native range land in southeastern Montana requires 3 acres to run one cow a month. So it takes 36 acres to run one cow a year. An acre foot of coal weighs 1,750 tons. A 20-foot seam of coal under one acre weighs 35,000 tons, the 36 acres to run a cow will produce 1,260,000 tons of coal.

At twenty cents a ton royality, this area, large enough to run one cow, will produce $252,000 to the owner. In addition, the resource now supporting this one cow will benefit the taxpayers of Rosebud County by over $10,000 and the State of Montana by $428,400. I will be surprised if 10 per cent of our land is mined; that will leave 90 percent for the cattle.

If I decided to sacrifice this one cow, that quarter of a million dollars will go a long way toward making a better home for the rest of my cows. But I do not have to sacrifice that cow. I can turn her on another 36 acres, reseed it and fertilize it and irrigate it and that cow will have company.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Senator Hansen represents cattle ranchers; Burton Brewester represents longtime cattle ranchers; these are important facts. Also, it's unlikely a magazine depending for its existance on cattle country readers would publish an article reflecting Mr. Brewester's views unless it supported his position.

Home Gardening Booms In Texas

"Home gardening is definitely booming, and in Texas gardeners can produce tasty, nutritious vegetables the year around," says Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service

To have a successful home garden, a number of important factors enter into the picture.

First of all, a site that has well-drained, fertile soil is best. However, homeowners often have little choice on the garden location. The location should also receive plenty of sunlight, but certain crops can be grown in partially shaded areas.

"Proper seedbed preparation is another important element for a good garden," points out Cotner. "If the garden site has heavy, tight clay soil, add one to two inches of sand and two to three inches of organic matter and then work these materials into the soil. Gypsum at the rate of six to eight pounds per 100 square feet also helps improve tight clay soils."

Before planting, apply a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 at the rate of two to three pounds per 100 square feet. Work the fertilizer into the soil and then form the beds for planting.

"Use transplants whenever possible to get a crop off to a head start," advises the specialist.

Once crops are up, water them sifficiently and regularly so that the water penetrates the soil to a depth of at least six inches. Light sandy soils may require more frequent watering. Cotner suggests watering in the morning or at least not later than mid-afternoon so that plants will dry before night. This helps prevent foliage disease.

Use of a long-handled hoe is still the best means for controlling weeds. However, adding a mulch of straw, leaves, grass, bark, gin trash, sawdust, peat moss or other organic material around plants helps control weeds and also rekuces soil temperatures and mositure losses.

"Keep a close check on your crops one they begin to approach maturity," advises the specialist. "Be sure to harvest them only at full maturity becuse that's when vegetables have their maximum flavor and nutritional content.

"Growing your own vegetables can be fun and it helps reduce the grocery bill," contends Cotner.

"So, Happy Gardening."

Farm-facts

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

THERE IS a lot going on on Texas farms now that will have a big effect on how Americans live in the coming months. Planting is underway over much of the State, and the weather is having its usual effect. In the northern part of the State, dryland wheat farmers have marked up an unsuccessful year because of drouth. Most of their wheat crops have been grazed out, plowed up, or abandoned. Irrigated wheat is doing well, as is wheat in the southern half of the State where one field was reported already harvested last week. About 22 per cent of the cotton was reported planted over the State, compared to nine per cent at the same time last year. Replanting of cotton, corn and sorghum in the southern half of the State is complete. Sorghum planting is almost over from the Blacklands southward, and planting for the entire State is about 45 per cent complete. Rice planting is almost complete, and peanut planting is about 10 per cent complete.

AS ALWAYS, rainfall has been spotty during the first three weeks of April, with Mercedes in the Valley reporting the most rain, 4.14 inches. Rainfall at various other places over the State during the same time will give you a picture of planting problems: Laredo 0, Corpus Christi .05, Victoria .85, College Station 1.41, Longview 1.47, Seymour .58, Wichita Falls 2.80, Amarillo .04, Big Spring .15, Waco 2.67, San Antonio 1.16.

MILK HAS been in the political news, and it is making good news on the agricultural front. Texas farmers got $266 million gross income during 1973 for dairy products. That's 12 per cent above 1972. The price of milk averaged $8.18 per 100 pounds which was 1.01 more than a year earlier, but the annual average number of milk cows was down one per cent from last year, to 355. Total production of milk in Texas was 3,256 million pounds, a drop of three per cent from 1972.

FEEDLOT operators plan to market 1,200,000 head of cattle between April 1 and June 30 this year, which is 54 per cent of the total on feed April 1 and six per cent more than were marketed in Texas during the same quarter of 1972. There were 2,219,000 head being fed for slaughter April 1 which is two per cent below a year earlier, four per cent below the number on feed March 1 and one per cent above the 2,205,000 January 1. Feedlots have been having their troubles as cattle prices declined, but there were 225 of them operating in the state in April. (That includes those feeding 1,000 or more head.) However, 41 of the feedlots were reported empty and the other 184 reported they had 2,172,000 head of cattle, about 71 per cent capacity of the 225 total.

ASCS News

Grain producers prevented from planting a grain crop due to abnormal weather conditions or other conditions beyond their control are advised that a request for acreage credit must be filed with the county ASCS office no later than May 15.

Should there be some disaster causing the loss of a grain crop, or causing an abnormally low yield, producers are to contact the county office before crop residue is destroyed or any acreage is abandoned or devoted to any other use.

Cropland Adjustment

Producers having interest in existing Cropland Adjustment Program Agreements are reminded that proper maintenance measures are to be continued on areas under contract.

To graze acreages designed under a contract, a request must be filed with the county office. Farmers are also reminded that brush and weeds must be properly controlled during the entire period of the contract.

Certification

The ASCS office is now in the process of accepting certification of planted crops.

This filed certification is also enrolling of the farm in the 1974 programs. Certification can be filed when crops are planted, but all reports are to be filed prior to destruction of the crop and not later than July 15.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES---

Corn Leaf Aphids Do Not Harm Grain Crop

By Bill McCutchen

Corn Leaf Aphid population are showing up in most grain sorghum fields through out the county and I would encourage producers not to spray these insects.

Corn Leaf Aphids are considered to be beneficial insects by many including myself. There are no yield losses to these insects and they provide food for many beneficial insects such as the Ladybug and Lacewing.

When you have an established population of corn lead aphids in the field with accompanying beneficials, it is good insurance against greenbug buildup and damage. Spraying for corn leaf aphids at this time of year can encourage greenbug outbreaks by sterilizing the field of beneficial insects.

Predator Control Program

Walter Lester, Cameron Seed Company has announced that shipment of the first order of M-44 spring-loaded ejectors and sodium cyanide capsules has arrived.

Producers receiving training at the February meeting in Cameron and having the signed completion certificate in their possession are eligible to purchase the materials indicated on this certificate.

Monthly reports are necessary on the control program and should be mailed to or brought by the County Extension Office at the end of each month's use.

Pecan Spraying Time Near

Time is near for the first generation of the pecan nut casebearer, probably the most damaging pecan insect in this area.

Spraying in Milam County is usually sometime around May 15th, but the date varies each year. I will put the correct spray dates in the local newspapers and on the radio as soon as they can be determined.

Materials listed for pecan nut casebearer control include Guthion; Zolone, Thiodan, Malathion, or Toxophene. The only material with no grazing restriction is Malathion.

A good fungicide such as Duter or Benlate should be applied with this spray application for pecan scab.

Zinc sulfate or zinc applications should also be made at this spraying to control pecan rozette.

Modern Life Smothers Gypsies

By Adrian Darmon

PARIS

Reuter -- Harrassed for centuries, persecuted by the Nazis during World War II and still considered undesirable by a majority of the population, gypsies still try to continue their nomadic existence in France.

Life has become increasingly tough for the gypsies who are being slowly smothered as an ethnic group by the restraints of modern life.

They now find it extremely difficult if not impossible to camp on the outskirts of towns or on waste land in the country.

Motorways disfiguring landscapes, blocks of housing projects sprouting around big cities and, above all, recent legislation practically outlawing the nomadic way of life, have contributed to threaten the very existence of at least 100,000 French gypsies.

Several tribes have scattered. Many have been compelled to leave the Paris region where they have lived for centuries, others have moved to seemingly untroubled places hoping their situation will improve.

A resolution calling for a halt to discrimination against some 300,000 gypsies living in the 18-member countries of the Council of Europe was adopted in September, 1969 by the Council's consultative assembly.

But nearly five years have elapsed and the council's recommendation have remained almost a dead letter here.

Spanish and Catalan gypsies, the Roms, the Sintis, the Manouches and the Yeniches form the main groups of nomads living in France.

The Manduches usually sell second-hand goods or collect scrap metals, The Roms and the Sintis are better known as craftsmen, the Yeniches mostly peddle goods near provincial towns. The Spanish and Catalan gypsies tend to be less organized and many of them have been reduced to begging, especially in big cities.

A gypsy who uses only his first name of Marco is married and has five children. He now lives near the famous Paris flea market where he works as a second-hand goods dealer.

Marco, 36, speaks bitterly about the plight of gypsies.

"Things are getting worse. We are increasingly harassed by the population and the police. People still believe stupid old legends about gypsies being kidnapers or sorcerers," Marco says.

"The life of a gypsy is to travel. We are the Bedquins of Europe and above all we prize our independence," he adds.

Marco has travelled a lot. Before becoming a second-hand dealer he was a tinker. He also joined the army.

"Military service is compulsory in France, even for gypsies. Many of them behaved bravely in the army but what did we get in return?" he asks.

Marco says gypsies are denied their fundamental human rights, that laws have been enforced against squatting and camping on common land, alongside highways and even on abandoned plots.

"And what about justice? The son of a non-gypsy would only receive a good spanking if he steals a bar of chocolate. But for such a small theft the son of a gypsy would be sent to reformatory," Marco says.

"The trouble is that people have always regarded us as undesirable. If only they were a bit interested in our history, I'm sure their attitude would change."

Schools Needing Aid, Says Kubiak

Rep. Dan Kubiak said this week that the indefinite schedule of the Constitutional Convention puts a question mark on the special legislative session he believes is needed to provide emergency funding for schools and teacher retirement benefits.

"I have urged Governor Briscoe to call a special session as soon as possible because school districts across the state must make up their budgets for the coming school year during the summer months," Kubiak said in his weekly newsletter.

He said that hundreds of school districts face property tax increases this year if the Legislature is not called into special session for emergency appropriations.

"Many local districts are looking at minimum tax raises of 10 percent unless help comes from the state," he added.

The alternative, as Kubiak sees it, is the cutting of school services -- buses, salaries and supplies. He noted that inflation affects school districts -- and all governmental functions -- just as it affects us personally.

"When the manager of the school lunch room buys food it is no different than the housewife having to pay increased prices at the supermarket."

Kubiak has proposed emergency aid equal to $40 per student. "From our investigations of the problems of districts budgets, we know that this $40 per student allocation would be a significant help with the local budgets but certainly not an extravagent slush fund."

Overall the plan would cost the state about $100 million which Kubiak believes could be taken from the $315 million surplus the comptroller estimates will be available in the state general fund during the coming year.

Local Nursing Homes Join In Special Week

Nursing homes in Texas will participate actively in Nursing Home Week, May 12 - 18 being sponsored by the Texas and American Nursing Home Associations, in order to honor patients and residents.

In joining the program, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Watkins, administrators of the Cameron and Colonial Nursing Homes, announced they will honor their patients by encouraging patient visitation especially on Mother's Day, May 12. This year's theme is "Nursing Homes - We Care."

"All of us in the nursing home profession are going to get the community to come in for a visit. We can provide for all the needs of our patients but one -- we can't show them that the community cares -- we cannot relieve their feelings of remoteness from community life unless the community does care and does come in," said Watkins.

"The health care revolution that is occurring in America is probably affecting the nursing home more than any other type facility," he continued. "We want to show people what our nursing home is like and what we are capable of doing for our senior citizens."

INCAS WALKED

The Incas had no knowledge of the wheel, no draft animals, and no beasts of burden other than the llama -- strong enough to transport 80-pound loads over Andean trails but too frail to carry a man, National Geographic says.

In expanding on the purpose of Nursing Home Week, Rogers Wilson of Austin, President of the TNHA said, "We want to focus attention on the nursing home in order 1) to increase community awareness of the need for nursing home-community involvement for the sake of our residents, and 2) to create a better community understanding of the role of nursing homes -- their achievements, goals and future roles in the total health care system."

A wide range of activities are planned for Nursing Home Week which included parties, picnics, shopping sprees, entertainment, art shows, etc. The community is given a special invitation to join in all the activities which begin on Mother's Day May 12.

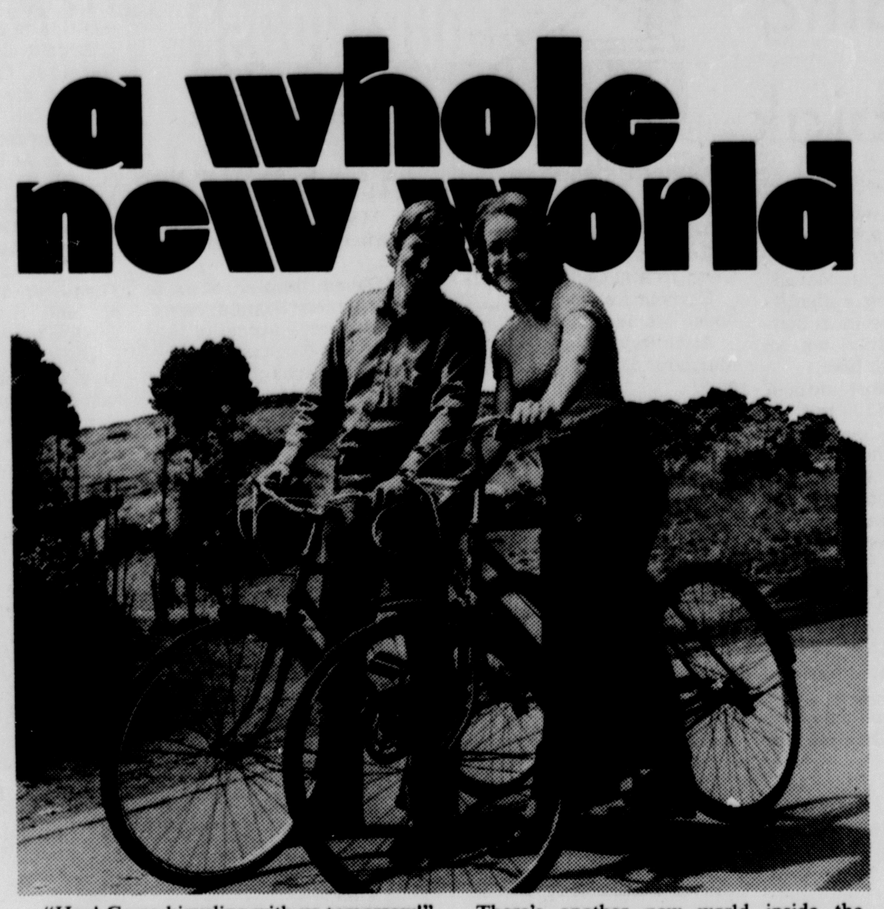
a whole new world



"Hey! Come bicycling with us tomorrow!"

The latest bicycling craze may be sweeping the land, but some aren't so enthusiastic:

"Haven't been on a bike for years!"
"I get all the exercise I want working in the garden!"
"Bikes are for kids!"

These skeptics should try cruising down a country road where the smell of haystacks, hyacinths or magnolias sweetens the air, or experience the warmth of open playgrounds, the coolness of tree-shaded streets, the unblurred faces of neighbors. It's a whole new world.

There's another new world inside the doors of your neighborhood church. But some hesitate here too:

"Haven't been to church in years!"
"I get all the religion I want just communing with nature!"
"Church? That's for women and kids!"

What do you say? Are you ready for a new world, a new life? Then come to church Sunday—and step in.

Computer Aids Business, Buyer

AUSTIN

A new computerized program which instantly matches Texas minority businesses with potential buyers has been developed by the Texas Office of Minority Business Enterprise (TexOMBE).

The program, dubbed INSTAMATCH, provides concise, detailed information on minority businessess in printout form and is available to buyers and executives in private corporations and government agencies , Jim Richardson, private enterprise coordinator, said.

"INSTAMATCH puts the minority business man in touch with buyers in the top major corporations and government agencies that are seeking minority business connection," he said. "It is designed to meet a long identified need for more rapid match-up of specific minority businesses to opportunities, especially in the private sector.'

Richardson said INSTAMATCH exposes the minority businessman to vast new markets such as joint ventures, expansion financing and cooperative and mutual production opportunities.

INSTAMATCH printouts provide information on business size, number of employees, products and services, equipment lists, past and present experience, bonding history, and insurance coverage.

Secondary data is also available on distances and availability of transportation between buyers and prospective suppliers.

The program is being coordinated with the Texas Industrial Commission's Data Processing Division.

TexOMBE, which operates under the auspices of the Commission, was created in August of 1972 by a federal grant from the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Offices are located in Lubbock, Austin, Tyler and Odessa.

DDC Course Can Save Your Neck

More Texans than ever before are learning to save their necks and their money with the Defensive Driving Course, an eight-hour classroom course which teaches crash avoidance techniques used by professional drivers.

DDC, a joint venture of the Texas Safety Association and the National Safety Council, is a statewide campaign to reduce highway deaths, injuries and property damage through driver improvement training. The program works, as evidenced by a National Safety Council study showing that DDC graduates have fewer accidents after completion of the course.

As an added bonus DDC graduates receive a ten per cent discount on their automobile insurance premiums.

Sports-Murray-Go-Round

MUCHO SPORTS

Color Texas Aggie Super Soph QB David Walker courageous. The Sulphur, La. lad who tured the talented Aggies around, as a mere freshman, told a writer: "Any football player who signs with LSU is stupid." As you know, Charley McClendon's LSU Begals are not exactly a breather on the Texas A&M schedule . . . Think Houston's sports media is not prejudiced against certain college athletic programs? To alums who've complained of almost total ignoring of their schools' activities, the arrogant, condescending reply has always been, "No space." Well, the sick, under-financed World Football League Texans show up in Houston, without even a football and begin signing Oiler Rejects. People, the miserable Oilers didn't even want. And, guess what? the same Media Folk who hold their nose and point fingers at Houston's NFL entry, welcome the Texas like the Miami Dolphins. Somebody's lying somewhere.

SOONER EXPERIENCE:

Think Oklahoma U. is not experienced at recruiting football players outside the rules? The current NCAA probation is the third time the Sooners have been found guilty of recruiting violations. The other times were 1955 and 1960 . . . Perhaps the most one-sided athletic series in the Southwest is Texas' 143 victories and only 21 defeats against Rice's baseball blue . . . Interesting that Both Head Coach Barry Switzer and Deposed Assistant Bill Michaels, of the NCAA - Convicted Oklahoma Sooners, are former Frank Broyles Arkansas football players.

Billy Lemmons, the 6-5 280 - pound Aggie Starting Offensive Guard, does not have an inferiority complex. "With all this talent," he says, "if we don't win the Southwest Conference there'll be something fishy going on." Big as Billy is, nobody's likely to dispute that . . . When TCU hired the late Jim Pittman, the Purple Price held a Houston Shindig honoring the new coach. Former Frog Norman Bulaich was on hand to tell reporters. "I'm impressed. He'll make a winner of TCU." Last week Jim Shofner, the current new TCU Tutor, was honored by a Houston party, conveniently attended by reporters and photographers. And, would you believe another Former Frog, Lufkin's Joe Robb, showed up to say his old teammate, Shofner, would make a winner out of TCU?

R-L Loses Bid For District

For the second year in a row, Rosebud-Lott lost to Fairfield in Waco, 4-3, for the District 10-2A title.

Fairfield won the game as it scored three runs in the sixth inning, in spite of Edward Salazar's pitching a two-hitter game for Rosebud-Lott.

Fairfield scored on two walks, two hits and one error.

"This is the second time this has happened to us," Rosebud-Lott Coach Larry Meecham said. "We scored our three runs in the second inning on two singles, by Roy Rodriguez and Jim Thornton, and two dougles by Salazar and James Kahlig."

Meecham said the last run scored when Kent Kahler singled in Kahlig.

Meecham said the Cougars had several chances to score during the game.

HALLIBURTON IS LOOKING FOR THE UNCOMMON INDIVIDUAL— COULD IT BE YOU?

Halliburton Services is looking for ambitious individuals with these qualifications: 21 or over, in good health, high school education or the equivalent, some mechanical aptitude and the desire to get ahead in life.

We are the world's largest oil field service organization and recently the demand for our services has come close to exceeding the supply.

So we've set up a training program lasting about eight months to train capable people to work as oil well cementers, one of the basic oil field services required by oil and gas producers. When you complete this training you are assigned to Halliburton locations either in the U.S. or foreign countries.

During the classroom training you receive excellent pay as well as all lodging, meals and transportation. After completing training and starting as a cementer, you'll get a salary increase and moving costs to your new location.

If you go abroad you'll also get living and family housing allowances and a differential pay increase. There are important tax advantages, too.

Our work is truly unusual. Every assignment is different. A cementer works outside with big, high-powered equipment. The responsibility is yours.

If you're interested, Halliburton Services representatives are interviewing from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, May 11 and 12 at the Holiday Inn East on Interstate 35, Waco, telephone (817) 753-0261. Appointments are not necessary and your family is welcome. Contact Felix Moody, at the Holiday Inn's Glass Room. We can arrange interviews at other hours, too. Or write us at Duncan.

Art Of The Occult Flourishes In Korea

By Kim Myon-Sik

SEOUL Reuter -- The art of the occult is still flourishing in South Korea, despite remarkable economic and technological development here in recent years.

It practitioners -- known as shamans, but more commonly called "Mudangs" in South Korea -- are in business as exorcists, soothsayers, healers and other branches of the supernatural They do no adhere to conventional religions, though many of their "Clients" may do so.

According to government figures there were 28,900 Shamans in South Korea in 1970, 66 percent more than a decade before.

They were made up of 18,300 females and 10,600 males.

But Prof. Moon Sang-Hee of the Vonset University College of Theology, who is an authority of traditional Korean faiths, believes there are three times as many shamans as officially listed.

The exact figure is difficult to obtain because Shamans are not required to register with government offices.

Korean Shamans often take up their profession after experiencing "demonic" possession themselves. This was the case with Mrs. Lee San-Yong, 58, head Shaman at a shrine in the suburbs of Seoul.

The daughter of a poor farmer, she was married at 14, after her first baby died, she got what mudangs call "spiritual illness," or possession by spirits.

After the couple gave up the Christian faith and became mudangs she regained her health.

Now Mrs. Lee does exorcisms of other possessed people, usually from dusk to dawn, for a fee of about $50.

She also gives blessings for good business to businessmen. In these cases, the ritual continues for two or three days, with the fee increasing accordingly.

She has been an exorcist for 15 years.

For a seance, she wears a round horse-hair hat and a blue silk garment with iron discs dangling on it. She carries iron swords or tridents to drive away evil spirits.

While drums, cymbals and trumpet - like horns sound. She gestures and dances, calling out to the spirits from time to time and inviting them to join the feast prepared for them.

She moves faster and faster, whirling and leaping high in the air. She begs the spirits, cajoles them with all sorts of promises, teases, jokes and pleads with them, ending the performance completely exhausted.

However, unlike Mrs. Lee there are mudangs who have never experienced possession by spirits. These people simply follow in the footsteps of their mudang parents or learn the art of exorcism as a way of earning a living.

Mudangs also earn money by selling charms in the form of characters printed on ricepaper.

Prof. Moon recently obtained more evidence of the strong influence of shamanism in modern Korea when he found that many students at his university, a Christian missionary institution, were carrying or had once carried charms which their parents had given them

PACKING AND SHIPPING MADE EASY

Packing needn't be a problem if you follow these simple tips:

1. Make sure all baggage is properly tagged. This means it should have both address tag and an address label.
2. Print your name and complete destination address and complete return address on each tag and label. Tags and labels should also carry the declared value of your shipment.
3. Label the inside of trunks, suitcases etc., with your complete name and return address.
4. Double-check to make sure each trunk and bag is carefully locked.
5. Make sure all breakable items are completely wrapped either with newspaper or other packing material. Also make sure there is extra packing material between breakable items.

Shipment can be easily handled--and this is especially important to college students returning home or setting off for summer adventures--by using the services of an expert like REA Express, the nation's largest intermodal transportation system. They have 350 on-campus collection centers, pick-up and delivery to final destination, and free student insurance. Equipped to ship everything--pets included--to just about anywhere in the U.S., Canada or Puerto Rico, REA services can be either pre-paid or collect.

Trust your possessions to men with experience -- and save your time and effort for studying, working, or just having fun!

HOME CANNING...

As the fresh fruits and vegetables from local and home-grown supplies become more plentiful, many of you are thinking of "putting up" some of these foods at home. There are two basic home food preservation methods—canning and freezing. Either can be fun, is easy, and can save you money. Here are a few fundamentals to remember when doing home canning.

Of course, the first step should always be the selection of the freshest, best-quality foods. The end product cannot be satisfactory if you do not use fruits and vegetables in prime condition and at the peak of flavor. Select foods free from blemishes, decay and mold. Be sure to wash the fruits and vegetables thoroughly, but do not allow them to stand in water for long periods of time. Some important vitamins are soluble in water.

Proper equipment is necessary to insure good results. All jars and caps must make an air-tight seal. Jars should be clean, free from chips and cracks, and sterilized. The processing equipment used will depend on the type of food to be canned. Low acid foods, such as meat, poultry, fish, and green beans, should be processed in the jars in a pressure cooker or canner. Acidic foods, such as fruits, tomatoes, peppers, or foods to which vinegar has been added, can be processed in a boiling water bath. Other pieces of equipment which make the operation easier include small vegetable brushes; a jar funnel; large washing pans; long - handled spoons, forks and tongs; and measuring cups and spoons.

There are many helpful instructional booklets and recipes available from your county extension office; from the manufacturers of canning equipment and supplies; from the public library; and from my office. Make sure you plan now to take advantage of the fruit and vegetable season for all-year-round good eating.
